

BASEL, SWITZERLAND — January 29, 2014 — High profile speakers from the Austrian Medicines and Medical Devices Agency, the Austrian Pharmaceutical Industry Association (PHARMIG) and prominent academics will come together to discuss the need for cooperation and interaction across their organisations at DIA's largest conference in Europe – the EuroMeeting 2014.

The 26th annual EuroMeeting, coming to Austria's capital from 25th-27th March, will feature the Austrian Satellite Meeting, bringing together local experts to discuss the requirements for an attractive Austrian research and industrial Pharma-location.

The satellite meeting, to be held on Tuesday 25th March, will be moderated by Heinrich Klech, President and CEO, Vienna School of Clinical Research, and will feature presentations from a panel of prominent speakers including:

- Christa Wirthumer-Hoche, Head of the Austrian Medicines and Medical Devices Agency, speaking on the "Positioning of the Austrian Medicines and Medical Devices Agency in the EU Network"
- Christoph Male, Associate Professor of Paediatrics for the Medical University of Vienna, discussing "OKids – Austrian Paediatric Research Network"
- Markus Müller, Vice Rector for the Medical University of Vienna, presenting on "Clinical Research in Austria"
- Joerg Windisch, Chief Science Officer for Sandoz Biopharmaceuticals, speaking regarding "Biologics R&D in Austria: Innovation and Sustainable Patient Access"
- Karl-Heinz Hofbauer, Director for Baxter Bioscience, discussing "Biotech Manufacturing of Lifesaving Biologicals in Austria"
- Jan Oliver Huber, General Secretary for the Austrian Pharmaceutical Industry Association (PHARMIG), addressing the "Business Environment" in the field.

The presentations will be followed with a panel discussion, during which attendees will have the chance to put burning questions to the panel of experts.
