GlobalData»

London – 21 December 2016 – The cardiac marker point-of-care (POC) market is expected to rise across the

The company's latest report states that key drivers in this market include the rising prevalence

Nadia McLurcan, GlobalData's Analyst covering Medical Devices, explains: "The adoption of cardiac m

POCT in ambulances is available in some European countries but has not yet been widely adopted in t

McLurcan continues: "Despite the steady market rise, there will be a number of significant barriers to g

"An additional obstacle with POCT is in changing the ways of working for numerous medical professio